MRS. KEARNS AND SON DISTRIBUTE PRESENTS

Year for Children of This Institution.

Hearts of one hundred and sixty little orphaned children beat with supreme joy in Kearns St. Ann's orphanage at 2:30 o'clock Monday afterwoon, as they marched into the darkened room where stood a Christmas tree blazing with the light of many candles and laden with presents given by Senator and Mrs. Kearns for each and every child. It was the annual Christmas celebration at the Orphanage and Senator and Mrs. Kearns, with their son, Edmund, and Father Dennis Kiely were present. Blahop Lawrence Scanlan expected to be present, but was detained by filness.

To the little tors, the Christmas tree with candles flaming from every branch, sparkling with gold and silver tinsel and bedecked with heautiful presents, was a realization of a dream of fairy land. Each child knew that among or on those green boughs hung some present which he was soon to claim as his own, and not one was disappointed.

The children were dressed for the occasion and were the happiness that the presents from the tree and distributed them. The happiness that shone from the faces of the expectant little children could never have equaled the joy of the woman who removed the presents she with her own hands had astened to the tree, and handed them of the many children who were homeless and for the planthropy of her inusand.

of the happiness be and his wife had been able to bring to the hundred and more homeless children.

Father Kiely made a short talk to the children. He spoke of Christmas and the spirit of giving which this time of year brings forth and touched on the generosity of Senator and Mrs. Kearns.

The candles burned low and the tree was denuded of its presents, which were to be found tightly grasped in the hands of the satisfied children, before the ceremony was over, and the Christmas celebration came to an end.

$1.020 to Pay for Book-Keeping.

Monday evening's meeting of the city council was enlivened by discussion, at these humorous, of the work of Watermann, Trader and company, special auditors, who have been paid nearly $10,000 to date for their services. Councilman Mulvey occupied the center of the stage for some time during the discussion and made the star speech of the evening.

The sphere began its revolutions as a result of a report from the committee on finance, recommending that the special auditors be paid $1020 for services from December 1 to 14. It was at this time that Mr. Mulvey seized a large portion of the floor.

"I would like to know," he said, "how much these men have been paid to date." Monday evening's meeting of the city

Ferry Explains.

Mr. Ferry Explains.

Mr. Ferry informed Mr. Mulvey that the appropriation recommended would bring the amount up to about $3500, adding that the work would in all probability cost from $2000 to $3000 more. Mr. Ferry then stated that the work was of the most important character and that the money had been well expended. The increase of license collections for the coming year, Mr. Ferry declared, would pay the entire cost of the work and half as much more.

much more.

The new system of accounts would be as good, he averred, as could be found in the country and would be such that the exact financial condition of the city would be known at the close of each day's business. Mr. Perry said in conclusion that he knew of his own knowledge that the special auditors had worked overtime day after day and that they had accomplished a great deal. He considered the money well spent.

Children in Awe.

The children sat in awe. From one Christmas to another is many months and they had forgot the past celebrations as they gathered around the tail tree which is recognized throughout the world as symbolic of a child's delight and joy. Orngses, candy and notes came from among the boughs as though fairles hid within and with magic wands drew them from the air (inst as fairless do in story bookels) and handed them to Mrs. Kearns and her son, who passed them among the crowd of waiting children.

Happiness pervaded the atmosphere of the room and the Christmas carols sung by the children rose ligher and sweeter from sheer joy of the occasion. The spirit of Christmas was deeply felt by every one present from the timest to that gazed in wonder at the flickering lights and could not understand, to the big man that sat contemplating the delight and joy of every one about him and was glad of the happiness he and his wife had been able to bring to the hundred and more horizonts. Father Klely made a short talk to the spirit of giving which this time of year brings forth and touched on the generosity of Scuator and Mrs. Kearns.

"They may know their business," Mr. Mulvey added, "but I want them to close up their work some time."

"Perhaps if the finance committee would get them a job clsewhere they would leave," suggested Mr. Martin.

"I do not think the special auditors should be criticised," declared Mr. Fernstrom, "The work they have done will be of great benefit to the city, and if the council does not know what has been done it is the fault of the council, and not the special auditors. I think all their work should have been submitted to the council."

ants. If Green wins in his struggle ngainst death, Bowen and Baker will be harged with highway robbery. If Green wins in the first degree will be the charge.

The first relates to the treasurer's office and provides as follows: That the treasurer shall keep all moneys of the charge.

They could be charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit marder, if Green recovers, but the same as in the former charge and robbery can be more easily proven. In such case the maximum is twenty years. The minimum is one year for assault and the contract of the prepare a summary of each fund in triplicate, one for the city sound. the close of each month the treasurer is required to prepare a summary of each fund in triplicate, one for the city council, one for the auditor and one for himself. He must also settle with the auditor at the end of each month by turning over all warrants and bonds paid. His books must at all times be open to the inspection of the mayor and members of the council and other parties interested.

Duties for Auditor.

The second ordinance relates to all officers of the city who receive fees or make collections. It is provided that such officers shall keep a cash book in which shall be entered all receipts. The auditor is required to be the custodian of all license tax blanks and tags and shall issue them as they are needed. Receipts for moneys must be made in triplicate by each officer affected—one for the person paying the tax, one for the auditor and one for the officer collecting the money. The head of each department is required to cover into the treasury each day all the moneys received by him and make out an itemized statement at the end of each month.

Suggest New Board.

In connection with the passage of these ordinances. Watermann, Trader & company submitted a report on the system of bookkeeping and accounting for appropriations and expenditures. The accountants recommend the creation of a board of estimate and apportionment, to consist of seven members—the mayor, president of the council and members of the finance committee—this board to apportion the revenue to the various departments, thereby limiting the amount that each department may expend and providing a check that will keep the expenditures within the revenues.

It is recommended that the head of each department shall submit to the auditor not later than December 31 of each year—except in 1968, when the report cannot be made earlier than January 31—a detailed estimate of expenditures for the ensuing year. It also is recommended that a distinction be made between expenses and improvements and that no appropriation be made including both expenses and improvements.

It is further recommended that the suditor shall submit to the board a detailed estimate of anticipated revenues showing the source of each item of revenue. In short, it is recommended that the auditor's summary should show the following. Estimated expenditures for the ensuing year, amounts of balances available and the amounts of everdrafts that must be provided for as the case may be; total estimated amount required under each fund, amounts af estimated licenses, water rates and other departmental revenues: estimated mill levy required for general taxes; estimated amount of general taxes; estimated amount of general taxes; estimated amount of general taxes; estimated with the report.

Mrs. Bradley's Children Commence Action to Break Will of Dead Senator.

GRANDMOTHER IS MADE GUARDIAN AD LITEM

From Interfering With Estate.

Arthur Brown Bradley, aged 7 years, and Martin Montgomery Brown Bradley, aged 4, by their guardian ad litem, Mrs. Mary Maddison, filed an action against Max Brown, executor of the estate of Arthur Brown, deceased, and Alice Brown, in the Third District court Monday. The action is brought to break the will of the late Senator Brown, which instrument left nothing to the plaintiffs, who are the children of Mrs. Anna M. Bradley and, as alleged. Arthur Brown.

The complaint sets out that the children are the children of Arthur Brown and that Mr. Brown died December 12, 1906. It is then set out that Arthur Brown's will was executed August 24, 1906, and that in the instrument Brown attempted to dispose of his property and prevent the plaintiffs from receiving a share of it.

It is next alleged that the will is unvalid because of the fact that Mr. Brown at the time of the execution of it was not of sound and disposing mind and memory and that he was not capable of making a will.

Habitual Intoxication.

Habitual Intoxication.

Habitual Intoxication.

It is charged in the same connection that Mr. Brown, at the time of making the will, was laboring under an insane hallucination regarding the plaintiffs and that, although be knew that the Bradley children were his children, he declared in his will that he did not believe they were his and directed that they should not receive anything. Further, it is alleged, Mr. Brown's delusions were the result of habitual intoxication.

The allegation is then made that the will was obtained by fraud, circumvention and undue influence exerted upon Mr. Brown by persons inimical to the interests of the plaintiffs, and was not free and voluntary.

The plaintiffs accordingly set that

The plaintiffs accordingly ask that the probate of the will be revoked, that it be held void, that the plaintiffs be admitted to inheritance, that the letters testamentary be set aside, that Max Brown be enjoined from interfering with the estate in any way and that he be directed to pay over the money in his hands for the benefit of the estate.
